How to Survive a Breakup – Comedy – USA – PG-13

Director: Deena Adar & Kai Collins

When thirtysomethings Nick and Téa experience a breakup, they're thrust into the stages of survival. With any loss, first comes denial, especially when you've been blindsided by your boo. After attempting to bury themselves in work, it's time to face reality and crash with friends. Of course, these friends have everything Nick and Téa don't, which is really freaking depressing. And after Nick and Téa fail to be rejuvenated by their respective one night stands, they let that depression wash right over them. Their well-intentioned friends concoct perfect cyber versions of Nick and Téa, forcing them into the unnerving world of online dating. It's finally time for this suffering twosome to get back out there and get their groove back but first comes a series of really awful dates. Really, really awful. Until...
